Everybody’s Got Something

by Veronica Chambers

Everybody’s Got Something is a memoir by Robin Roberts, published in 2015. In the book, Roberts shares her experiences with cancer, her journey from Mississippi to New York City, and her rise to fame as a co-host of “Good Morning America.” She also talks about her battle with myelodysplastic syndrome (MDS), a rare blood disorder, which she was diagnosed with at the age of 44. The book is a testament to her strength and resilience, and how she faced her challenges with courage and determination. The memoir has received critical acclaim and has been praised for its honesty and vulnerability. It has been adapted into a podcast, with Robin Roberts as the host, featuring guests who share their own stories of overcoming adversity.
